Gorgeous Decorative Balcony in Panyu, Guangdong

~25m² of 'Rose Garden' Ronadeck Resin Bound Surfacing blend 1511

Ronacrete Guangzhou's first project for the resin bound system in mainland China is the small but beautiful 4th floor balcony in a luxury residential complex in Panyu. The well-established and conservative community includes a wide range of quality properties and many of them, like the project here and adjacent building, are now a few years old and crying out to be brought up to date.

Ronadeck Resin Bound Surfacing (RBS) was selected for its quality feel underfoot, for the speed of installation and for the natural aggregate appearance that complements the feel underfoot. The installation was nonetheless bespoke; the decorative aggregate blend was selected by Ms Ho from a range of options put together specifically for this project. This selection was further adjusted to achieve the micro texture and the grip underfoot preferred by the client.

The installation was completed over just a few hours spread over 2 days:

- Day 1 was spent cleaning the substrate which in this case was sound but uninspiring tiles. A discreet compatibility test was carried out to assure us that the RBS could be installed without a primer (this is most often the case) and the permeable edging was installed around the drains and at the French windows.
- Day 2 involved 2 hours diligently moving and covering the furniture and furnishings in the house and setting up the equipment. Another 2 hours for our professionally trained installers to mix and install the RBS followed by another 2 hours of cleaning down and restoring the furnishings to their original location.

RBS is also fast curing; it becomes touch dry within a few hours and is ready for foot traffic by the next day.
